

Seneca Museum
of Waterways & Industry

in partnership with

Women's Rights National Historical Park

PRESENTS

SENECA COUNTY HISTORIAN
WALT GABLE

“WATERWAYS, WOMEN AND INDUSTRY AND THE SENECA FALLS CONVENTION”

Seneca County Historian Walter Gable will relate how developments in terms of waterways and industry and the actions of women contributed to the convening of the first women's rights convention in Seneca Falls in July 1848. Gable will show how the canal on the Seneca River and its connection with the Erie Canal spurred an industrial boom in Seneca Falls. This industrial boom attracted many people to come to Seneca Falls, most as workers but also many would-be entrepreneurs. Gable will also trace the involvement of women in various reform efforts.

Friday July 15th - 7:00pm

Wesleyan Theatre
126 Falls Street, Seneca Falls

FREE ADMISSION

Seneca Museum
of Waterways & Industry

in partnership with

Women's Rights National Historical Park

PRESENTS

SENECA COUNTY HISTORIAN
WALT GABLE

“WATERWAYS, WOMEN AND INDUSTRY AND THE SENECA FALLS CONVENTION”

Seneca County Historian Walter Gable will relate how developments in terms of waterways and industry and the actions of women contributed to the convening of the first women's rights convention in Seneca Falls in July 1848. Gable will show how the canal on the Seneca River and its connection with the Erie Canal spurred an industrial boom in Seneca Falls. This industrial boom attracted many people to come to Seneca Falls, most as workers but also many would-be entrepreneurs. Gable will also trace the involvement of women in various reform efforts.

Friday July 15th - 7:00pm

Wesleyan Theatre
126 Falls Street, Seneca Falls

FREE ADMISSION

